Thank You Brandy Evans! LaGrange Elementary Students learned how to use a circuit board, alligator clips and anything that conducts electricity to create a computer keyboard. It's called a MakeyMakey. In the pictures they are using bananas to play a piano on the computer. The students found objects in the classroom that conduct electricity, like erasers, paperclips, thumbtacks, pencil lead, themselves, etc. They then learned how to create an electrical loop with those objects. Once the loop is created the circuit board uses those objects as keystrokes on the computer. They also played a guitar with thumbtacks and paperclips. This utilized their computer programming skills they learned in previous years with drag and drop block coding.
